MOTUL PETIT LE MANS

SEPTEMBER 30 – OCTOBER 3

After an incredible sell-out event in 2025, the 29th Annual Motul Petit Le Mans, September 30th through October 3rd, is set to be another one for the history books!

One of the most beloved fall traditions in motorsports and an international motorsports destination, Motul Petit Le Mans is a four-day festival of speed and fan offerings like no other. This internationally renowned event culminates with the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship season finale on Saturday, October 3rd, which serves as the championship decider for what will likely be many if not all the four classes of competition. In addition to the WeatherTech Championship, four additional series will be racing for their respective championships over the course of the weekend as well.

From the moment gates open to spectators on Wednesday, September 30th, the non-stop on-track action and infield festivities offer something for everyone to enjoy. From practices and qualifying sessions on Wednesday to the start of feature series racing on Thursday that doesn't stop rolling until the checkered flag falls on Saturday night, the rubber really does not stop burning! Fans can witness hert-pounding competition from not only the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship on Saturday but also include the IMSA Michelin Pilot Challenge in the FOX Factory 120 on Friday afternoon, IMSA VP Racing SportsCar Challenge, Whelen Mazda MX-5 Cup presented by Michelin and the Porsche Carrera Cup North America.

While the on-track action is the main focus of the Motul Petit Le Mans weekend, the full experience comes from enjoying the fan activities offerings as well! Discover the Fan Zone, where you can find food trucks, bars, merchandise and collectibles for sale, interactive manufacturer displays and more. Wander through the various car corrals on property, including Corvette and Porsche, which all showcase automotive eye candy from the specific manufacturer and fellow brand enthusiasts. Stake your claim at your favorite viewing spot for the fan-favorite Thursday night practice where the beauty of night racing is on full display as the IMSA WeatherTech Championship competitors catch their headlights as they practice for Saturday's race into the darkness. Don't miss the ultimate fan experience – the fan grid walk on Saturday morning – which happens on the front straight right before the green flag drops on the 10-hour endurance classic. The paddocks are open to fans all weekend and an autograph session allows fans to meet their racing heroes. These activities, as well as many more, are available to every single ticketholder who comes through the gates. Camping is available for the entire event and kids 12 and under always enter for free, so it's easy and a great value to bring the whole family out.

2025 MOTUL PETIT LE MANS RECAP

The 2025 Motul Petit Le Mans – the 28th running of the internationally-renowned endurance event – was another one for the record books, as a sold-out crowd enjoyed the IMSA WeatherTech championship decider for the first time in the event's history. The glorious Georgia sunshine faded into an incredible sunset as 53 teams across four classes raced into the night.

After 10 drama-filled hours of racing, Earl Bamber, Jack Aitken and Frederik Vesti drove the No. 31 Whelen Cadillac V-Series.R to a 5.182-second overall and GTP class victory over the No. 23 Aston Martin THOR Team Aston Martin Valkyrie in the 28th Annual Motul Petit Le Mans.

Aitken was fastest in two of the three practice sessions in the lead-up to the race, and he qualified the No. 31 Cadillac on the outside of the front row. He stalked Tom Blomqvist in the Motul Pole Award-winning No. 60 Acura Meyer Shank Racing with Curb Agajanian Acura ARX-06 through the first two stints before taking the lead early in the third hour.

But Bamber soon suffered the misfortune of a punctured tire while running under caution shortly after he took over the No. 31. That started a furious comeback drive that saw the Whelen Cadillac scythe through the 12-car GTP field to regain the lead at the six-hour mark. They were able to control the race from there, their main drama coming when the last four hours ran caution-free, forcing a late stop for fuel that cut their comfortable lead to less than a second. The No. 31 Cadillac emerged just ahead of the trailing pitstop pack to secure the win.

In the LMP2 class, the TDS Racing trio of Steven Thomas, Mikkel Jensen and Hunter McElrea completed a fairytale ending to Thomas' last scheduled WeatherTech Championship start aboard its No. 11 ORECA LMP2 07 in Le Mans Prototype 2 (LMP2). After starting from the rear due to the car being found to have bodywork mass beyond a permitted homologated limit, the car was moved from first on the grid to last on the grid. However, Thomas took the car to the lead in his opening stint and McElrea and Jensen kept it there for the majority of the rest of the race. Jensen crossed the finish line 48.903 seconds ahead of the No. 43 Inter Europol Competition ORECA LMP2 07.

In the GT classes, both Paul Miller Racing and AF Corse ran out front for the majority of the race. The trio of Dan Harper, Max Hesse and Connor De Phillippi started on pole in Grand Touring Daytona Pro (GTD PRO) to win PMR's third race of the season aboard the No. 48 BMW M4 GT3 EVO. It was listed a lap ahead of the second-place No. 4 Corvette Racing entry.

In Grand Touring Daytona (GTD), the trio of Alessandro Pier Guidi, Lilou Wadoux and Simon Mann shared the winning No. 21 AF Corse Ferrari 296 GT3. The race opened with a first-lap pileup that took out several contenders in the GTD class. At the end, Pier Guidi crossed the finish line 4.158 seconds ahead of the No. 023 Triarsi Competizione Ferrari 296 GT3.
